Jake Barnes, Cecil Proctor and Other "Club" Habitues Face Prosecution After Raid

ON THE theory that they had not adopted in summer, a gambling house metropolis because they were found there at the time of the big raid of these men later.

A. D. French, Jess Rodde, P. J. Smith and Jake Barnes were bound over to the district court on a charge of violating a state where gambling took place. Each furnished bond to the sum of $500. Immediately after these men were bound over, warrants for the arrests of C. A. Callahan, Jake Barnes, A. D. French and P. J. Smith were served by Deputy Sheriff M. E. Smith charging these men with the Southern club on July 21. H. O. (Pope) Gates, Pete Phillips, Charles Steele, George Garrison, Gene Oliver, Bob Lovell, Thomas Peterson, H. H. Smith, O. A. Callahan and Jack Pease were released by County Judge William Zwink Thursday morning. It is thought probable that charges of gambling which is a misdemeanor and not a felony charge like the one first filed against them will be preferred by the county attorney's office against these men later.

A. D. French, Jess Rodde, P. J. Smith and Jake Barnes were bound over to the district court on a charge of violating a state where gambling took place. Each furnished bond to the sum of $500. keeping in phase where timbering was sold. All of the above cases were in connection with the raid on the old Southern Club, all the alleged law-breaking having been done at that place.

A separate charge alleging that Fish Lynch was guilty of selling liquor to Charles Morris and Harry Scott, prosecuting witnesses for the state, was also filed Thursday. Morris and Scott are the two men from Chandler secured for the suitors' attorney to get evidence against the Southern Club who received over $5000 in cash.

No new developments arose in the further charge lodged by the county attorney against Cecil Proctor Wednesday. Proctor was arrested to the sheriff immediately after Charles Buzza, another of the Chandler-sheriffs, had testified that he had given him (Buzza) $1000 to change the testimony which he was to offer in the trial. Buzza deposed the money to Proctor, who immediately fled the charge against Proctor. Upon making a bond of $1000, which was signed by Jake Barnes and Pope Gates, Proctor was released.

The motion set forth by E. H. Adams, attorney for Barnes and others, to require the state to separate the charge in the condemnation proceedings of the Southern Club, and property seized when the Southern Club was demolished by the court.

BOYLE EXPLAINS WHYPERSECUTED

Opposed Williams in Democratic Primary and Has Been in Shadow of Big Stick Ever Since.

THE present state administration has no reason to try and harm me," said Chief Mine Inspector Ed Boyle this morning. "And I understand well it is for the reason that I oppose R. L. Williams before the primary and told the矿主 to say so publicly. I am satisfied that Judge J. E. A. Robertson says the Democratic nominee for governor.

The first intimation I had of the governor's opposition to me came from his office.

This persecution is being indulged in various ways. For instance County Attorney Fred Branson over at Muskogee stirred up some trouble relative to the well that was being drilled by John Shropshire of Oklahoma City on the latter's farm near Muskogee. One of my deputy inspectors was relieved at a time when he was going to prove that well and they poked it up that he was let out because he was performing his duty. He was relieved because he brought in an expense bill of $275.89 for superseding the plugging of three small wells. His expense for the month was $89. I sent the claim back to him and he reduced it to $82.89. His alteration speaks for itself. Ed Boyle.

I never knew this man Shropshire until the action of Branson was called to my attention. Today I received a clipping from a Muskogee newspaper which states that Shropshire has let the contract to fish the drill out of his well and drill a new well. This would indicate to any honest man that it was not an abandoned well, as charged by Branson.

Can't Publish Reports

Another bit of persecution, which made pain to me as the caliber of the governor, was his action in cutting out the measure affecting this department an appropriation for reports. Day after day we are receiving requests from oil and coal men for reports that would be a great value to them. A Tulsa man said he would give $10 for such a report, but we are hamstrung by the edict of "Silent Season" and have no reports to give out. If anyone cared for a report of the pretty birds and the minnows of Oklahoma, however, they can be supplied with a handsomely printed and bound volume."

ISSUES 13,322 TAGS

Up to the noon hour today the state highway commission, George Noble, had issued 14,777 automobile license tags. Mr. Noble estimates that there are at least 25,000 automobiles in the state, in which event two-fifths of the total number have not been licensed for the current year.

CORPORATIONS PLAN INSURANCE

Large Employers From Over State Consider Project of Mutual Co. for Compensation Insurance

REPRESENTATIVES of the larger employers of labor throughout the state are in session Thursday discussing the organization of an interinsurers' exchange to take care of the casualty insurance under the new workmen's compensation act which goes into effect September 1.

The intent of the organization is for all members of the exchange to cooperate in taking care of their own liability difficulties. Among the concerns represented at the meeting are The Ben Bland Co., the Tulsa Plate Glass Co., Curtis and Gartside of Oklahoma City, the Tulsa Sheet Metal Works, the Okmulgee Window Glass Works, W. H. Coyle Co. of Guthrie and others. Other concerns not represented are also interested in the proposed movement.

A separate charge alleges that Fish Lynch was guilty of selling liquor to Charles Morris and Harry Scott, prosecuting witnesses for the state, was also filed Thursday. Morris and Scott are the two men from Chandler secured for the suitors' attorney to get evidence against the Southern Club who received over $5000 in cash.

No ECONOMY IN BIG CAPITAL JOB

(Continued from page one under the heading These people are employees of the commission. They are to report to us on omission of duty and to see that materials, workmanship, etc., come up to the plans and specifications.)

Expensive Superintendent.—The original contract for plans and specifications for the capital as made by Governor Lee Cruce provided that the architects were to receive $25 per cent of the $1600000 appropriated to build the structure. That large fee has been paid. The present governor R. L. Williams recently entered into an other contract with the same architect for the terms of which he agreed to pay them another 1½ per cent to superintend the further construction of $22500 more than is already paid to the architects. According to this, as above related, the capital commission had employed a superintendent, located by the federal government, who under the terms of the last, receives "not exceeding $300 a month" and incidentally, is receiving not a cent less. These expenditures are made in accordance with an act of the legislature providing for such excessive expenditures.

Commissioner Anthony yesterday, in the presence of Senator Goulding thus delighted the miners of the capitol commission's work.

The law actually became effective 90 days after the adjournment of the 1913 legislature, which was October 1, 1913, but because a referendum petition had been filed by citizens of Guthrie and Muskogee it did not become effective until the supreme court decided the petition was not filed within the time prescribed by law, which decision was handed down January 19, 1914. The judgment of the court not becoming operative for 90 days made the rent date on which the law became effective February 19, 1914.

A provision of the law made the funds appropriated available only on condition that Oklahoma City paid $1000 into the state treasury during the balance of a pledge made at the time of the removal of the capital from Guthrie to Oklahoma City. This became available July 1, 1914, but the commission had assurances that this money would be received and we had plans and specifications far enough in advance that the moment this money became available we began the preliminary work for the actual construction of the building, secured a railway water, waterworks extension and sewer connection.

July 29, 1914, we began excavating for the foundation, removing 30,000 cubic yards of earth, finishing this work the latter part of October. By that time we had the plan for the foundation and proceeded with construction of the foundation and the reinforced concrete frame of the building.

At the time of the letting of the contract to James Stewart Company the commission had put in place more than 75% of material of the construction and proceeded with the pouring of the mezzanine floor, above the main floor, which in reality is the third floor of the building.

Because of the massive construction required for the foundation and in the lower portions of the reinforced concrete frame, almost three-fourths of this portion of the building was completed. After thorough inspection by the contractors and tests made under the supervision of the architects by Hunt's laboratories the work done was approved and its correctness guaranteed in every respect.

The total cost of the work done under the supervision of the commission, exclusive of the architects' fees and the commission's salaries is approximately $178000 in round numbers.

The present contract for the work to be done by the contractors is $1,253,500. The total amount authorized to be spent is $1,515,000. It will be seen from these figures that $1,253,500 with $178,000 added, will leave a sufficient sum in the opinion of the commission to construct the necessary power and heating plants to furnish electric current and heat for the building, taking care of vacuum cleaning, force air, fan system, etc.

The buildings as agreed upon are absolutely fire-proof, having metal doors, metal frames and sashes for the windows and metal moulding and metal or marble baseboards. All contracted for the building will have a low or answer dome, but under the specification of the state legislature the footings and base of the reinforced concrete construction are sufficiently heavy to carry a high dome in the event the legislature should make an appropriation for that purpose, the base extending clear up through the roof.

—Another bit of persecution, which made pain to me as the caliber of the governor, was his action in cutting out the measure affecting this department an appropriation for reports.
